When an ancient enemy returns with a powerful new weapon, long-forgotten evils begin to surface. The Dauphine soon discover that sins committed in the past often have a ripple effect on those living in the present.

Raghavan Iyer

Indian Cooking Unfolded (Workman)

Monday, October 28 at 7pm

This book makes obvious why Raghavan won an IACP Award of Excellence for Cooking Teacher of the Year: His voice is clear and encouraging, his directions faultless, his recipes authentic yet completely accessible. But it's also the stunning new format of the book that makes this a perfect introduction to Indian food.

Mary Oak

Heart's Oratorio (Goldenstone Press)

Tuesday, October 29 at 7pm

A memoir about life (and near-death) with a genetic heart condition. The journey portrayed reconciles the author's family heritage of natural healing and the conflict that arises between a holistic and spiritual orientation with western technology.

Dan Simmons

The Abominable (Little Brown)

Wednesday, October 30 at 7pm

A thrilling tale of high-altitude death and survival set on the snowy summits of Mount Everest, from the bestselling author of The Terror. It's 1924, and the race to summit the world's highest mountain has been brought to a terrified pause by the shocking disappearance of George Mallory and Sandy Irvine high on the shoulder of Mt. Everest.

NEW AND NOTABLE

FICTION

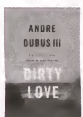

The Night Guest by Fiona McFarlane (Faber & Faber)

You will be hard pressed to find a more unsettling read this year. From the very beginning this tale of a widow living alone in an isolated locale and the mysterious woman who comes to take care of her is filled with a subtle haunting menace that lurks behind even the most simple of day-to-day events.

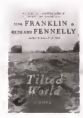

Longbourn by Jo Baker (Knopf)

In this irresistibly imagined below-stairs answer to Pride and Prejudice, the servants take center stage. When a mysterious new footman arrives, the orderly realm of the servants' hall threatens to be completely, perhaps irrevocably, upended. Jane Austen fans and Downton Abbey fans will find quite a bit to enjoy here.

Dirty Love by Andre Dubus III (WW Norton)

In this heartbreakingly beautiful book of disillusioned intimacy and persistent yearning, beloved and celebrated author Andre Dubus III explores the bottomless needs and stubborn weaknesses of people seeking gratification in food and sex, work, and love.

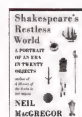

The Tilted World by Tom Franklin & Beth Ann Fennelly (William Morrow)

In 1927, when federal revenue agent Ted Ingersoll arrives in Hobnot, MS to track down two fellow agents who vanished while pursuing a local bootlegger, he gives an abandoned baby boy he finds to childless Dixie Clay Holliver—not knowing that she's a bootlegger herself. Meanwhile, the Mississippi is rising. A Los Angeles Times Book Prize winner, Franklin has co-authored with his wife, respected poet Fennelly.

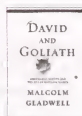

Thank You For Your Service by David Finkel (Sarah Crichton)

Climbing into the hearts and minds of those he writes about this book is an act of understanding, and it offers a more complete picture than we have ever had of these two essential questions: When we ask young men and women to go to war, what are we asking of them? And when they return, what are we thanking them for?

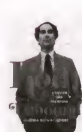

Shakespeare's Restless World by Neil MacGregor (Viking)

The New York Times bestselling author of A History of the World in 100 Objects brings the world of Shakespeare and the Tudor era of Elizabeth I into focus. This magnificent book, illustrated throughout with more than one hundred vibrant color photographs, invites you to travel back in history and to touch, smell, and feel what life was like at that pivotal moment, when humankind leaped into the modern age.

David and Goliath by Malcolm Gladwell (Little Brown)

In his new book, Malcolm Gladwell challenges how we think about obstacles and disadvantages, offering a new interpretation of what it means to be discriminated against, or cope with a disability, or lose a parent, or attend a mediocre school, or suffer from any number of other apparent setbacks.

Roth Unbound by Claudia Roth Pierpont (Farrar Straus & Giroux)

Here, at last, is the story of Roth's creative life. Claudia Roth Pierpont, a writer for The New Yorker for more than twenty years, tells an engaging story even as she delves into the many complexities of Roth's work and the controversies it has raised. This is not a biography but something more rewarding: an attempt to understand a great writer through his art.

Scaredy Squirrel Prepares for Halloween: A Safety Guide for Scaredies by Melanie Watt (Kids Can Press)

From costume ideas to trick-or-treating strategies, Scaredy Squirrel helps readers plan for the spookiest night of the year. Here's a helpful tip found in the chapter on Halloween Candy: "Getting in great physical shape before Halloween is a must. Being fit and strong helps you carry the weight."

Your Skeleton is Showing: Rhymes of Blunder from Six Feet Under by Kurt Cyrus (Disney Hyperion)

The spectacular rhymes of Kurt Cyrus, paired with the deliciously grim illustrations of Crab Scramble, take readers on an adventure through the friendliest and wackiest graveyard you'll ever find! This collection of deadpan poems is sure to be a perennial favorite and is the perfect off-beat introduction to poetry.

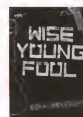

Secret Pizza Party by Adam Rubin (Penguin)

What's a pizza obsessed raccoon supposed to do? Anytime he gets close, all he gets is a broom for his trouble. Obviously, the only solution is a secret pizza party. A seriously funny book by creators of Dragons Love Tacos.

Counting by 7s by Holly Goldberg Sloan (Penguin)

Quirky and precocious, Willow Chance has never fit in socially. When her parents die in a tragic accident, her endearing qualities bring together a mismatched cast of characters who prove that family can be many different things. Ultimately funny and uplifting, this multicultural group will stay with you long after you finish the book. Ages 10 and up.

Wise Young Fool by Sean Beaudoin (Little Brown)

Richie Sudden is in Juvenile Detention, tasked with journaling what led up to his current circumstance. What follows is a riotous chronicle of his friendship with the always unpredictable El Hella, their band, and the seemingly unattainable and dangerously hot Ravenna Woods. Ages 14 and up.

STAFF PICK

Angela Sloan by James Whorton, Jr. (Free Press)

In a sense, the exploits of young Ms. Sloan occur in a landscape no less fantastical than that of Oz or Wonderland. This is the uncanny milieu of Watergate, hippies, anarchic radicalism, and the insane serpent-eating-its-own-tail, Ouroboros, of the espionage world. Whorton's writing is unpredictable, a touch melancholy, and filled with deliciously wry, deadpan humor.

A must-read for fans of Charles Portis's True Grit. -Adam

THIRD PLACE BOOK CLUBS

Good Knits

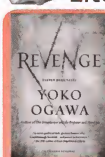

Joy for Beginners by Erica Bauermeister (Monday, October 14 at 7pm)

Join us to knit or crochet while we discuss Joy for Beginners, a novel in which six Seattle women celebrate a friend's cancer survival by accepting her challenge to do one thing that frightens them. Bring your own project or help us reach our goal of providing 200 hats for the homeless in December.

New to knitting? Come at 6:30 and get a free lesson. Our next meeting will be November 11, when we will discuss Blackberry Winter by Sarah Jio.

Literary

Revenge by Yoko Ogawa (Monday, October 21 at 7pm)

Scenes from everyday life unfold with strange, compelling twists in this collection of eleven interlocking dark tales. A gardener who grows carrots shaped like hands, an abandoned post office filled with kiwis, and a grieving woman in an unattended bakery are just a sampling of the oddities that comprise these disquieting, eloquent stories.

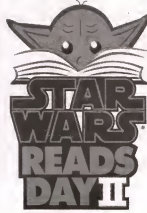

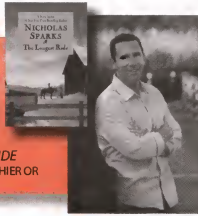

Join Jane in the Den for a lively discussion.
